

I think broadband over powerlines is not only a bad idea, an exhaustive study by the government in the Netherlands has already shown that it did not work well enough to be feasible. In addition, the interference to radio communications would be severe in the short wave bands. Better to drop broadcast TV and use these frequencies instead.